

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL ETHICS CONFERENCE V
BANFF, ALBERTA
JULY 12-14, 2012

CONFERENCE PRESENTERS and PANEL CHAIRS

Erika Abner is an Educational Consultant for lawyers in Ontario. She has over twenty years of teaching experience at all levels of legal education, including as an Adjunct Professor of Law at Osgoode Hall Law School, as a faculty member at the Bar Admission Course, and as Director of Continuing Legal Education at McCarthy Tetrault LLP. Her doctoral research focused on mentoring in law firms, and was published in the 2008 Canadian Legal Education Annual Review.

Annalise Acorn is Professor of Law at the University of Alberta. She is the author of Compulsory Compassion: A Critique of Restorative Justice (Vancouver: UBC Press, 2004). In 2009 she was an H.L.A. Hart Fellow at the Oxford Centre for Ethics and Legal Philosophy, University College, Oxford. She has been a Visiting Professor at University of Michigan Law School, University of Siena Department of Economic Law, and University of Hawaii Richardson School of Law. She is a frequent visitor at the Einstein Forum in Potsdam, Germany.

Dubravka Askamovic is a faculty member of the J.J. Strossmayer University of Osijek, whose fields of interest and projects include Company Law, Commercial (Contract) Law, Competition Law, Legal Clinics, Legal aspects of regional policy in Croatia-"branding the region", balanced development of sport with special respect to regional issues and Language for Law - Legal English Syllabus Development Working Group (ABA/ CEELI).

Rakesh K. Anand is Professor of Law at Syracuse University College of Law. He graduated from Stanford University with a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science (with honors and distinction) and from Yale Law School. After graduating from law school, he clerked for Justice Aharon Barak of the Supreme Court of Israel and subsequently spent several years as a civil litigator in San Francisco. Rakesh's scholarly interests lie at the intersection of legal theory and legal ethics. More specifically, he is writing a series of papers on the "cultural study of the lawyer" (cultural study understood as a form of philosophical-anthropology), the organizing principle of which is that law in America is a cultural practice and the national commitment thereto – to living as a community under the rule of law – gives rise to a variety of professional obligations for a lawyer.

Gabrielle Appleby is Senior Lecturer and a PhD candidate at the University of Adelaide, researching the constitutional role of the Solicitor-General in Australia. She taught previously in the public law field at the University of Melbourne and the University of Queensland. Her work in practice included time with the Victorian Government Solicitor's Office as a Senior Solicitor and as a solicitor with Minter Ellison (Brisbane) in the competition and intellectual property team. She spent a year as an associate to his Honour Justice PD McMurdo of the Supreme Court of Queensland.

Les Arthur is Senior Lecturer at the University of Waikato, New Zealand. He completed a Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Waikato, and a Bachelor of Laws and Master of Commercial Law, with Honours, at the University of Auckland. He is a Barrister and Solicitor of the High Court of New Zealand and Director of the Graduate Diploma in Dispute Resolution. Les worked in private practice for eight years, most recently as senior corporate counsel for a multinational insurer.

Robert Atkinson Jr. is the Ruden McClosky Professor at the Florida State University College of Law. He is recognized for his publications addressing the intersection of law and literature. Robert is one of the country's leading scholars on legal professionalism, a noted scholar on the law of nonprofit organizations and on the relationship between business ethics and legal ethics. Recipient of the 2001 Professionalism Award from the Florida Supreme Court's Commission on Professionalism, Rob served as a Visiting Professor at Cornell Law School in Spring 2002

Lynn Baker holds the Frederick M. Baron Chair in Law, and is the Co-Director of the Center on Lawyers, Civil Justice and the Media, at the University of Texas School of Law. One of the nation's leading scholars on issues of professional responsibility in group litigation, Lynn is also a leading academic defender of federalism and the rights of states. She is the co-author of a leading law school text, Local Government Law: Cases and Materials (Foundation Press, 4th ed. 2010) (with Clayton P. Gillette), and the author or co-author of dozens of articles and book chapters.

Dmitry Bam is Associate Professor at the University of Maine School of Law. Dmitry graduated summa cum laude from Syracuse University and earned a law degree with distinction from Stanford Law School. He clerked with the Honorable Barry G. Silverman of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in Phoenix, Arizona. Dmitry's research interests include judicial ethics, judicial selection, and constitutional interpretation.

Benjamin Barton is Professor of Law at the University of Tennessee College of Law where he has taught since 2001. His book The Lawyer-Judge Bias in the American Courts was published by Cambridge University Press in 2011. His law review articles have been published in the University of Pennsylvania, Michigan, California, and Empirical Law Reviews and discussed in Time Magazine, The New York Times, the ABA Journal, and The Wall Street Journal Law Blog, among others.

Juan P. Beca is Professor of Constitutional Law and Ethics at Universidad Católica de Temuco, Chile. He has a Masters degree in law, diplomas in Law Teaching Methodologies and Strategic Management and Executive Development. Juan has more than 15 publications (in Spanish) on the relationship among state institutions and fundamental rights, and on teaching law issues. He is a member of the Interdisciplinary Ethics Group and the Ethical Research Committee at Universidad Católica de Temuco.

Faisal Bhabha is Assistant Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University. He has researched and published in the areas of human rights, equality, multiculturalism, national security and access to justice. Previously, he sat as Vice-chair of the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario. He holds an LL.M. from Harvard Law School and carried on a varied public and private law practice, appearing before administrative boards and tribunals and at all levels of court, including the Supreme Court of Canada. He also advised or represented numerous public interest organizations and NGOs in matters related to constitutional law and human rights.

Susan V. R. Billington is Policy and Program Counsel at the Law Society of Alberta in Calgary. After graduating from the University of Calgary Faculty of Law in 1985, Susan was admitted to the Alberta Bar in 1986. She practiced as both a barrister and solicitor before joining the Law Society in 1994 where she has held the positions of Complaints Resolution Officer, Complaints Manager and Policy and Program Counsel. She has supported the Benchers in the development of many policy and program initiatives. In 2007, Susan was seconded for 2 years to be the founding Executive Director of Pro Bono Law Alberta, the 100th anniversary legacy project of the Law Society. She is also an experienced mediator and professional facilitator. Susan was appointed Queen's Counsel in 2008.

Andy Boon is the Dean of the School of Law at the University of Westminster. He was an Honorary Legal Adviser at South Lambeth Citizens Advice Bureau between 1982 and 1989. An Associate Research Fellow at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies, he joined the University of Westminster in 1989 as a principal lecturer in law. He was an educational consultant to the Inns of Court School of Law (1988) and to the Law Society of England and Wales (2002). For the General Council of the Bar of England and Wales he has served on the Education and Training Committee, Continuing Professional Development Committee and Monitoring Committee.

Michael Bossone is currently Special Advisor to Dean Patricia White at the University of Miami School of Law. He is the co-creator and a founding member of LawWithoutWalls. His career has been dedicated to building and sustaining human connection and institutional culture. It is what first drew him to LawWithoutWalls and what motivates the time, energy, and commitment he joyfully gives to this innovative project. Michael previously served as Assistant Dean during his nine years at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University.

Hannah Brenner is Lecturer in Law and Co-Director of the Frank J. Kelley Institute of Ethics and the Legal Profession at Michigan State University College of Law. She is also a core faculty member and serves on the advisory committee of the Center for Gender in the Global Context at Michigan State University. Her research and teaching interests primarily surround issues of gender, leadership and the legal profession, and violence against women. Hannah served as the first executive director of the Center for Women in Law at the University of Texas School of Law.

Kim Brooks is the Dean of the Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University. She formerly held the H. Heward Stikeman Chair in the Law of Taxation at McGill's Faculty of Law. Kim teaches all areas of taxation, and has received several teaching awards. Her primary research interests lie in the areas of corporate and international tax, and tax policy. Before moving to academia, Professor Brooks practiced as a tax lawyer with Stikeman Elliot LLP in their Toronto and London (UK) offices.

John Browning is Managing Partner of the Dallas office of Lewis Brisbois Bisgaard & Smith LLP. John represents individuals and businesses both large and small in state and federal courts throughout Texas and Oklahoma, and on a pro hac vice basis in other jurisdictions. John has extensive trial, arbitration, and summary judgment experience, and in solving client problems, in a wide variety of legal areas.

Donna Buckingham is Associate Professor of Law at the University of Otago. Her teaching and research interests include statutory interpretation, evidence, civil procedure and the regulation of the legal profession. She is the Director of the New Zealand Legal Information Institute, the largest free online information site for New Zealand law, conducted in partnership with the AustLII. Currently Donna is a Barrister of the High Court of New Zealand, the Chair of the Women's Consultative Group of the New Zealand Law Society and a Council member of the Otago Branch of the New Zealand Law Society.

Jason Buttuls is a recent graduate of the University of Alberta Law School (2012) who will be articling with Brownlee LLP in Calgary this upcoming year. His previous schooling includes a Business Degree with a major in Finance from Thompson Rivers University. Jason was active in university in several groups in the law faculty, including as a volunteer for Student Legal Services Canada, as webmaster of the law faculty rugby club, and director of the annual Law Show charity event. He also published Canons of Construction, the law school newspaper.

Ray Campbell is Assistant Professor of Law at the Peking University School of Transnational Law. He studied at Yale College, and he holds a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Virginia. He has served as law clerk to Judge Malcolm Wilkey of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit, as law clerk to U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger at the Supreme Court, as a partner in the transnational law firms of Kirkland & Ellis and Jenner & Block, and as Chairman and CEO of HarmonyCentral.com, Inc. He is a scholar of civil procedure and professional responsibility.

Susan Carle is Professor of Law at American University Washington College of Law. Her teaching and research interests lie primarily in the areas of civil rights legal history, employment discrimination, labor and employment law, legal ethics, and the history and sociology of the legal profession. She has published articles examining lawyers' conceptions of their professional obligations to further the public interest in the Cornell Law Review, Fordham Law Journal, Harvard Journal of Gender and the Law, Stanford Journal of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, and numerous other journals. She is editor of Lawyers' Ethics and the Pursuit of Social Justice (NYU Press 2005), which collects work in the emerging field of critical legal ethics scholarship.

Elizabeth Chambliss is Professor of Law and Co-Director of the Center for Professional Values and Practice at New York Law School. She specializes in the empirical study of the legal profession, focusing on the organization and regulation of large law firms and the effects of globalization on the U.S. legal services market. Her most recent project focuses on the future of U.S. legal education, and the emergence of new organizational models for law schools in the U.S. and abroad. Professor Chambliss was a principle organizer of Future Ed, a year-long contest of ideas for innovation in legal education, cohosted by New York Law School and Harvard Law School. Professor Chambliss received her J.D. from the University of Wisconsin, where she also earned a Ph.D. in sociology.

Kay-Wah Chan is the Postgraduate Director of the Department of Asian Languages at Macquarie University, Sydney. His current research focus is on legal profession in Japan and related issues. He has also recently expanded his research to cover legal profession in Hong Kong. He was a practicing lawyer, as associate and partner, in a major law firm in Hong Kong for eight years. Practical experience has given Kay-Wah a particular insight and perspective on issues concerning legal profession. It also enabled him to develop a fused theoretical and practical approach in his research. He has presented papers on legal profession in Japan and/or Hong Kong and/or socio-legal issues concerning Japan in a number of international conferences in Australia, North America, Europe and China.

Simon Chester is a partner in the Litigation and Business Law groups of Heenan Blaikie's Toronto office, with special focus on conflicts of interest, professional responsibility, and legal opinions. He has been a pioneer in the application of advanced technologies to the practice of law. Educated at Oxford University, (B.A., M.A.) and Osgoode Hall Law School, (LL.M.), he is professionally qualified in Ontario (1982) and England and Wales (1988). Simon has held leadership positions in a number of bar associations and was the first non-American to chair the American Bar Association's Tech Show, its Law Practice Management Section's Editorial Advisory Board, the LPMS Education Board and its New Media and Internet Board. He served as President of the College of Law Practice Management and as President of the Oxford University Society in Toronto; he is a director of the Canadian Rhodes Scholars Foundation. He was recently awarded the Chief Justice of Ontario's first Fellowship in Legal Ethics and Professionalism. He co-leads the most widely read Canadian legal blog, SLaw.

Kathleen Clark is the John S. Lehmann Research Professor at Washington University Law in St. Louis. She teaches and writes about legal and government ethics, whistleblowing and national security law. She is Associate Reporter for the American Law Institute's Project on Principles of Government Ethics and was chair of the National Security Law Section of the Association of American Law Schools. Kathleen served as a consultant to the Administrative Conference of the United States, which, based on her research, recommended that the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council apply government ethics standards to some service contractor personnel. Kathleen co-authored a Washington Post op-ed about the Justice Department torture memo, and later expanded that analysis into Congressional testimony and a law review article. She recently serves as Special Counsel to the D.C. Attorney General, providing advice on government ethics and transparency.

Greg Cooper is Associate Professor of Philosophy and Director of the Society and the Professions Program in Ethics at Washington and Lee University, having previously taught at Duke University, State University of New York Collage at Potsdam, University of Minnesota and University of Wisconsin-Stout. His research focuses on ethics and the professions, normative ethics, philosophy and public policy, and philosophy of science.

W. Brent H. Cotter is Professor of Law at the College of Law at the University of Saskatchewan. He is a member of the organizing committee for ILECV. He served as Dean of the College from 2004-2010. Prior to his appointment as Dean he was a professor at Dalhousie Law School (1977 - 1991) and a Visiting Professor at the University of Alberta (1991 - 1992) and Duke Law School (1983 - 84). He served as Deputy Attorney General for Saskatchewan (1992 - 1997) and as Saskatchewan's Deputy Minister of Intergovernmental and Aboriginal Affairs (1997 - 2004) and Municipal Affairs (2001 - 04). Brent is a member of the Law Society of Saskatchewan and the Barristers' Society of Nova Scotia. He was appointed Queen's Counsel in 1993. He has written on legal ethics, legal education and employment law.

Elaine Craig is Assistant Professor at Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University. She teaches constitutional law, evidence law, gender, sexuality and law, and tort law, and has won several awards including excellence in teaching, and the Dalhousie University Medal in Law. She has authored several articles in various areas of law including consent defense, relevance of delayed disclosure to complainant credibility in cases of sexual offenses, reinterpretation of the criminal regulation of sex work, and constituting family under Section 15 of the Charter. She is also the author of Troubling Sex: Towards a Legal Theory of Sexual Integrity (UBC Press, 2011).

Sarah Cravens is Associate Professor at the University of Akron School of Law. She received her A.B., magna cum laude, from Princeton University, her M.Phil from Cambridge University and her J.D., magna cum laude, from Washington & Lee University, where she was senior articles editor of the Washington and Lee Law Review. Her areas of interest include legal ethics and judicial role. Sarah has been admitted to the Oklahoma state bar, as well as the District of Columbia bar.

Scott Cummings is Professor of Law at UCLA School of Law. He teaches Business Associations, Professional Responsibility, and Community Economic Development, and is faculty chair of the Epstein Program in Public Interest Law and Policy. His scholarship focuses on the organization and practice of public interest law, and he is currently working on a book that examines the role of public interest lawyers in the movement to transform the Los Angeles low-wage economy. In law school, Scott served as executive editor of the Harvard Civil Rights-Civil Liberties Law Review.

Clark Cunningham holds the W. Lee Burge Chair in Law & Ethics at the Georgia State University College of Law. He is the director of the National Institute for Teaching Ethics & Professionalism (NIFTEP), a consortium of ethics centers at six universities, and the Effective Lawyer-Client Communication Project, an international collaboration of law teachers, lawyers and social scientists. He has been elected to a two-year term starting in 2011 as a vice-chair of the Academic and Professional Development Committee of the International Bar Association. He publishes on a variety of topics with an emphasis on interdisciplinary and comparative scholarship.

Tim Dare is Associate Professor in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Auckland New Zealand, and is currently completing research on professional and applied ethics, the philosophy of law, and medical ethics. He has also been a lecturer in philosophy and law at Victoria University of Wellington. A common theme in his work in ethics and applied ethics has been a skepticism as to the satisfactoriness of virtues ethics accounts of obligation: that skepticism flows from the view he has defended on authority. He has been widely published in various articles on professional ethics, and is the author of The Counsel of Rogues? A Defence of the Standard Conception of the Lawyer's Role (Ashgate).

Anthony E. Davis is a partner in Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP's Lawyers for the Profession® Practice Group, in New York. He advises lawyers and law firms in the United States and internationally on legal ethics, law firm creation, merger and dissolution, and risk management. He teaches Professional Responsibility Issues In Business Practice at Columbia University Law School. He is a past President of the Association of Professional Responsibility Lawyers (APRL). He is admitted in New York and Colorado (and is a non-practicing Barrister and Solicitor in England).

Michele DeStefano is an Associate Professor of Law at the University of Miami. Her primary scholarly interest is in the intersection of law and business, how this intersection reshapes the role of inside and outside counsel, and the consequences of these developments for clients, lawyers, the profession, and the public. Her current research employs a mix of empirical methodologies to study the intersection of public relations and corporate legal controversies. Michele is also a founder of LawWithoutWalls, conceived and spearheaded as an experimental, collaborative, part-virtual, education model in an attempt to 1) change the way law school educators communicate with law students, lawyers, entrepreneurs, and each other; and, 2) to motivate innovation in legal education and practice.

Richard Devlin is Co-chair of the Organizing Committee for ILECV. He is Professor of Law at Schulich School of Law at Dalhousie University and has published extensively in the area of legal ethics, professional regulation and judicial ethics. Richard has received awards for excellence in teaching, including the Hanna and Harold Barnett Award for Excellence in Teaching First Year Law. He has also previously been a member of faculty or visiting scholar at Osgoode Hall Law School, the University of Calgary, the University of Toronto, and McGill University.

Fernando Dias Simoes is a member of the faculty of law at the University of Macau. He completed his post-graduate work in labour law, administrative and tax justice at the University of Coimbra, and completed his Doctor in Law graduating sobresaliente cum laude at the Faculty of Law – University of Santiago de Compostela (Spain). He has received scholarships in collaboration with professors at the University of Santiago de Compostela (Spain) relating to lawyers liability insurance, and is a member of several research groups including as an Associate Member - Instituto Jurídico Portucalense, since April 2010, a Permanent Member - Centro de Investigação Jurídica Aplicada do IPCA, and as a Member of the Research Group Marco Xurídico do contexto sócio-económico actual, Faculty of Law of the University of Santiago de Compostela (Spain), since July 2010.

Ronit Dinovitzer is Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Toronto and a Faculty Fellow at the American Bar Foundation. She holds a PhD in Sociology from the University of Toronto. Ronit is currently engaged in research on stratification in the legal profession through her involvement with the After the JD project, the first national longitudinal study of law graduates in the US. She has also conducted research on the social organization of lawyers, the market for lawyers and legal services, and the effects of legal culture among civil litigators. Ronit's research also extends to the sociology of crime and criminal justice, including work on specialized domestic violence courts, prosecutorial decision-making, sentencing, and the effects of incarceration on offenders and their families.

Tsend-Ayush Dorjgotov is a JDS fellow /Japanese human resource and developing scholarship/, Faculty of Law, Kyushu University, Japan. He graduated from School of Law, National University of Mongolia in 2005, and he received his master's degree in legal studies from same school in 2007. After his graduation, he worked as a researcher at Constitutional and Administrative law sector of National Legal Centre of Mongolia, besides assistance of Scientific Secretary of National Legal Centre until 2008. Then Tsend-Ayush served as an Officer, Commissioner at Prevention and Public awareness department of Mongolia Independent Authority against Corruption in Mongolia.

Adam Dodek is Associate Professor, Faculty of Law, University of Ottawa. He is a member of the organizing committee for ILECV. He joined the Faculty of Law in 2008 and is a member of the Faculty's Public Law Group, the director of The Professionalism Initiative and the co-founder of the Legal Writing Academy. Adam graduated from McGill University and Harvard Law School and then received a Fulbright Scholarship to research Israeli constitutional law while clerking for the Supreme Court of Israel. After being called to the bar in California, Adam practiced law in San Francisco and then clerked for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in Pasadena. Professor Dodek then returned to Canada and clerked for Justice Claire L'Heureux-Dubé at the Supreme Court of Canada. Adam's areas of research include public law, the legal profession, the judiciary and legal ethics.

Jocelyn Downie is Professor in the Faculties of Law and Medicine at Dalhousie University. She works at the intersection of law, ethics and health care. Her research interests include women's health, assisted death, research involving humans, and organ transplantation. Her work is interdisciplinary, collaborative, and geared both to contributing to the academic literature and to affecting change in health law and policy at federal and provincial levels. She is a Fellow of both the Royal Society of Canada and the Canadian Society of Health Sciences.

Nigel Duncan is Professor of Legal Education at The City Law School, City University, London. He is Course Director of the LLM in Professional Legal Skills. His main teaching is on the Bar Professional Training Course, where he supervises the live-client clinical FRU Option. He is Academic Lead for Assessment for City University, and a National Teaching and Learning Fellow. He is Convenor of Teaching Legal Ethics UK. His current research addresses the preparation of lawyers to meet the challenge of corruption.

Mary Eberts holds the Ariel Sallows Chair in Human Rights at the University of Saskatchewan College of Law. She has been a member of both the full-time and adjunct faculty at the Faculty of Law, University of Toronto, with a long involvement in the Constitutional Litigation Program. In 2004-2005, Mary held the Gordon F. Henderson Chair in Human Rights at the University of Ottawa. In 1980, she joined the litigation department of Torys; in 1994, she left her partnership at Torys to establish her own firm. She was involved in the crafting of the equality guarantees of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and is a co-founder of the Women's Legal Education and Action Fund (LEAF), and first chair of its National Legal Committee.

Tigran Eldred is an Associate Professor at New England Law: Boston. He previously taught at New York University Law School, Hofstra University School of Law, and Lewis & Clark Law School. Prior to teaching, he worked as a public defender, civil rights lawyer, and human rights advocate for various organizations, including The Lawyers Committee for Human Rights (now Human Rights First) and the New York Legal Aid Society, and as a law clerk to Chief Judge James L. Oakes of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (1990-91). Tigran's research explores the regulation of lawyers in criminal cases. He has published in Kansas Law Review and West Virginia Law Review.

Trevor Farrow is Associate Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School. He is also the Chair of the Canadian Forum on Civil Justice which has received a $1M CURA Grant to research issues related to access to justice. Trevor's teaching and research focus on the administration of civil justice, including legal process, legal and judicial ethics, globalization and development. He is a Member of the Chief Justice of Ontario's Advisory Committee on Professionalism.

Anneka Ferguson is a researcher and lecturer at the Australian National University Legal Workshop. She obtained her BALLB (Hons) from Macquarie University and was entered on the Roll of Legal Practitioners of the Supreme Court of the Australian Capital Territory in 2006. Initially working in both private and government legal practice as a personal injury litigator, she took on a lecturing role at ANU Legal Workshop in 2008. Since joining Legal Workshop, she has convened courses on Legal Practice Trust Accounting and the Professional Practice Core Course. She researches and publishes on topics related to lawyers' regulation and legal education.

John Flood is Professor of Law and Sociology at the University of Westminster. He studied law and sociolegal studies at the LSE, Warwick, and Yale Law School, and took his PhD in sociology at Northwestern University in Chicago. John worked at the American Bar Foundation as a research associate and Indiana University-Bloomington before joining the University of Westminster. He has been an Exxon Fellow in Ethics in the Poynter Center at Indiana University, an Academic Visitor in the Sociology Department at LSE, a Jean Monnet Fellow at the European University Institute in Florence, a Visiting Fellow at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies, and TranState Adjunct Professor at the University of Bremen. Since 2010 John has been a member of the Legal Services Board's Research Strategy Group, and in 2012 he was awarded a Leverhulme Research Fellowship. His research focuses primarily on the legal profession and the globalization of law.

Tony Foley is Associate Professor and Director Clinical Programs in the Australian National University College of Law. Tony practiced law in general practice in Australia for 20 years, principally in criminal and environmental law. During that period he was a partner and consultant to a number of regional law firms. In 1999 he ceased full time practice. He continues to hold a practicing certificate and appears regularly in courts representing legally aided clients.

Susan Saab Fortney holds the Howard Lichtenstein Distinguished Professor of Legal Ethics and is Director of the Institute for the Study of Legal Ethics at Hofstra Law School. Her work focuses on issues related to law firm governance and ethics. She has conducted various empirical studies and is a prolific and well-published legal scholar. Susan's research focuses on law firm peer review, law firm culture, ethics and billable-hour expectations. Before joining Hofstra Law school, Susan served as the Paul Whitfield Horn Professor and Interim Dean at Texas Tech University School of Law.

Nora Freeman Engstrom is Assistant Professor of Law at Stanford Law School. Her scholarship lies at the intersection of tort law and professional ethics. Nora has also written extensively on law firms she calls "settlement mills"—high-volume personal injury law practices that heavily advertise and mass-produce the resolution of claims. Before joining Stanford Law's faculty in 2009, Nora was a research dean's scholar at Georgetown University Law Center and an associate at Wilmer Cutler Pickering Hale and Dorr LLP. She holds a J.D. from Stanford and a B.A. from Dartmouth College.

Art Garwin is Deputy Director of the ABA Center for Professional Responsibility. He serves as Staff Counsel to the Center's Publications Board and Conference Planning Committee. He has also served as Staff Counsel to the ABA Standing Committee on Professionalism, the ABA Commission on Multidisciplinary Practice (1998-2000) and the ABA Task Force on the Model Definition of the Practice of Law (2002-2003). Art has written numerous articles on professional responsibility, including 40 ethics columns for the ABA Journal, and a chapter for the ABA book Attorney-Client Privilege in Civil Litigation. He also has served as Editor of The Professional Lawyer and Journal of The Professional Lawyer since 1994. Art is a member of the Advisory Board of the Miller-Becker Institute for Professional Responsibility at the University of Akron School of Law.

Tahlia Gordon is the inaugural Research & Projects Manager at the Office of the Legal Services Commissioner (OLSC). She is responsible for managing the OLSC research projects, education and publication portfolios. Tahlia is the editor of the OLSC bi-monthly newsletter Without Prejudice and the Annual Report. Prior to joining the OLSC, Tahlia was the Executive Director of the Legal Profession Advisory Council and Policy Officer at the NSW Bar Association. Tahlia has also worked at the Australian Mission to the United Nations in New York. Tahlia has a Bachelor of Social Science (Hons) and a Bachelor of Laws from the University of NSW and a Masters in Human Rights Law from the University of Notre Dame in the United States. Tahlia is also the Secretary General of the Australian Section of the International Commission of Jurists.

Justice Stephen Goudge is a justice of the Ontario Court of Appeal. He completed his undergraduate and legal education at the University of Toronto, and holds an M.Sc. (Econ.) from the London School of Economics. He was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1970 and appointed a Queen's Counsel in 1982. He was managing partner of the firm Gowling, Strathy & Henderson in Toronto where he engaged in a general litigation practice. In 1989 was Counsel to the Office of the Premier of Ontario. He was active in the Ontario Bar Association and the Canadian Civil Liberties Association and was an elected Bencher of the Law Society of the Upper Canada from 1991 to 1996. He is a Judicial Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers. He received his appointment to the Court of Appeal for Ontario in 1996.

Andrew Grech is Managing Director of the Melbourne office of Slater and Gordon. He joined Slater & Gordon in 1994 and has worked as a litigator in most areas of the Company's litigation practice. Andrew also spent three years in the then fledgling Sydney office between 1997 and 2000. Since he became Managing Director in 2000, the Group has enjoyed substantial growth, expanding from seven offices in 2002 to a network of more than 65 locations across Australia in 2012. As Managing Director, Andrew has overseen the unprecedented and highly successful growth of the firm through strategic acquisitions, mergers and organic growth, and was the driving force behind the recent acquisition of UK based law firm Russell Jones & Walker.

Bruce Green is Louis Stein Professor of Law and Director of the Stein Center at Fordham Law School. Prior to joining Fordham Law he worked in the Office of the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, was a law clerk to Justice Thurgood Marshall (1982-83) and a law clerk to Judge James L. Oakes of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (1981-82). Bruce has published extensively in the area of legal ethics, with a particular emphasis on prosecutorial and defence counsel ethics.

Garner Groome is Counsel at the Law Society of Alberta. He was admitted to the Alberta bar in 1992 after articling in the Court of Appeal of Alberta. He practiced primarily in appellate advocacy before entering public service with the Canadian Forces' Office of the Judge Advocate General. Garner joined the Law Society of Alberta in 2005 as one its counsel responsible for, among other things, the prosecution of ethical misconduct complaints and other professional regulatory matters.

Kath Hall is Senior Lecturer in Law at the Australian National University College of Law. She is an experienced legal academic and has worked in Universities in Australia and overseas. Her main areas of interest and publication are corporate governance, psychology and organizational misconduct, transnational business corruption and student wellbeing. Kath is also the coordinator for the Masters of Laws Government and Commercial Program and the ANU College of Law's inaugural Director of Student Wellbeing.

Linda Haller is Senior Lecturer at the University of Melbourne Faculty of Law. She has published and spoken widely in Australia and overseas in relation to the professional discipline and regulation of lawyers. In 2006 she completed her PhD 'Discipline of the Queensland Legal Profession' at the University of Queensland. Dr. Haller is presently comparing the ways in which lawyers are regulated in various jurisdictions, both within Australia and overseas. In particular, she is interested in the implementation of consumer protection reforms in lawyer discipline and their impact. She is also monitoring the COAG National Legal Profession Reform Project.

Neil Hamilton is Interim Dean at the University of St. Thomas Law School, and is Director of The Holloran Center for Ethical Leadership in the Professions. The focus of his teaching and scholarship is the ethics and professionalism of both the legal and academic professions. Neil is the author of three books, over fifty longer scholarly articles and over ninety shorter articles. In 2002 Minnesota selected him as one of the recipients of its Lawyer of the Year Award. Prior to joining St. Thomas as a founding faculty member, Neil taught at Case Western Reserve University School of Law and William Mitchell College of Law faculty. He also practiced law in Minneapolis.

Justin Hansford is Assistant Professor at Saint Louis University Faculty of Law. Prior to joining St. Louis he clerked for Judge Damon Keith on the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit (2009-2010). Justin's research incorporates legal history, legal ethics, critical race theory, human rights, and the Global Justice Movement in a broader attempt to interrogate injustice in society. He has a B.A. from Howard University and a J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center, where he was a founder of The Georgetown Journal of Law and Modern Critical Race Perspectives. After obtaining his J.D., Justin assisted in the founding of Imagine Southeast Public Charter School, in Washington, D.C. He then worked as a staff member with the Obama For America presidential campaign, and mostly recently worked in the White House Office of Presidential Personnel.

Tom Harrison is counsel at the Death Investigation Oversight Counsel and is an adjunct professor teaching legal ethics at Queen's University. He previously worked at the Ministry of the Attorney General. He has an LL.B. from Queen's University and Masters in Policy and Public Administration from Ryerson University. Tom will be commencing doctoral studies at the faculty of law at Queen's University starting in September 2012.

Lawrence K. Hellman is Dean Emeritus and Professor of Law at Oklahoma City University School of Law. He also serves as executive director of the Oklahoma Innocence Project at OCU LAW. He received his B.S. degree from Washington & Lee University and M.B.A. and J.D. degrees from Northwestern University in Chicago. He served for four years as an attorney with the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., before commencing his teaching career at Washington & Lee's law school in 1974. He joined the faculty of Oklahoma City University School of Law in 1977 and served as dean from 1998 to 2011. Lawrence is an elected member of the American Law Institute and the Oklahoma Fellows of the American Bar Foundation. He is a recipient of the Oklahoma Bar Association's Award for Legal Ethics and the Presidents' Awards for Service.

Ian Holloway is Dean of Law at the Faculty of Law, University of Calgary. Before joining the Calgary Faculty he was the Dean of Law at the University of Western Ontario, completing his second five-year term as Dean of Western Law on June 30, 2011. Before that appointment he was the Associate Dean at the Australian National University (ANU) in Canberra. Before beginning his academic career, Ian spent a number of years in private practice in Halifax with the Atlantic Canadian law firm McInnes Cooper, focusing on labour, administrative and admiralty law. He also served as the Clerk to the Chief Justice of the Federal Court of Canada. Ian was appointed a Nova Scotia Queen's Counsel (QC) in December 2005.

Vivien Holmes is a Senior Lecturer at the Australian National University College of Law. She teaches Legal Ethics in the Graduate Diploma of Legal Practice. Her research interests are legal ethics and the legal profession. Vivien is a PhD candidate researching the role of in-house counsel working for corporations that invest in emerging economies. Prior to joining academe she worked in private and government practice, government policy, and as a judicial officer.

Remington Huang is a partner in the Taipei office of Baker and McKenzie. He practices in the areas of major projects, litigation and arbitration. He earned his LL.M. from the National Taiwan University in 1980, and is currently a lecturer at Soochou University and Chin Hwa University. Mr. Huang also serves on the Government Procurement Commission, and was the president of the Taipei Bar Association from 2000 to 2002. His pro bono and community projects include serving as chairman of the Judicial Reform Foundation.

Deborah Hussey Freeland is Associate Professor at the University of San Francisco School of Law. Her research examines the interfaces between law and science. She is the author of "Maieusis Through a Gated Membrane: 'Getting the Science Right' in Public Decisionmaking" (Stanford Environmental Law Journal, 2007) and "What Is a Lawyer? A Reconstruction of the Lawyer As an Officer of the Court" (forthcoming, St. Louis University Public Law Review). She has also published numerous peer-reviewed articles in prominent scientific journals, and spoken on a variety of topics involving science and law, environmental decisionmaking, feminist theory, and professional ethics. Deborah earned her undergraduate degree in biochemistry and cognitive science at Vassar College, and her JD and PhD at Stanford University.

Allan Hutchinson is Dean of Graduate Studies and Associate Vice President Graduate at York University. He was Professor of Law at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University. Allan is a legal theorist with an international reputation for his original and provocative writings. He was elected to the Royal Society of Canada in 2004 and named a Distinguished Research Professor by York University in 2006. His research interests are law and politics; legal theory; the legal profession; constitutional law; torts; jurisprudence; civil procedure; and racism and law. As well as publishing in most of the common-law world's leading law journals, he has written or edited many books.

Jan L. Jacobowitz is Lecturer in Law, Associate Director of the Center for Ethics & Public Service, and the Director of the Professional Responsibility and Ethics Program (PREP) at the University of Miami's School of Law. The PREP program provides an opportunity for students to apply their study of professional responsibility and legal ethics in a variety of real world settings. Jan has conceived and written numerous interactive materials for her presentations. Prior to joining the University of Miami, Jan had a dynamic career in legal practice, working as a legal aid attorney, at the Department of Justice in the Office of Special Investigations as a prosecutor of Nazi war criminals who had illegally entered the United States after WWII, and in private practice. She also taught in high school law programs, and was awarded the We the People Constitution Education Award and the Gavel Award for High School Moot Court Competition from the Florida Law Related Education Association in 2006.

Colin P.A. Jones is Professor of Law at Doshisha University Law School in Kyoto, Japan. Prior to entering academia he practiced as a lawyer in New York, Hong Kong and Tokyo with a focus on commerce, finance and telecommunications. He is admitted to the bars of New York and Guam, and is also qualified to practice in the Republic of Palau. He has a Bachelor's degree in Oriental Languages and Literature from U.C. Berkeley, an LL.M from the Tohoku University Graduate School of Law, and a J.D. and LL.M. from Duke Law School. As a scholar, Colin has published extensively in both English and Japanese on a wide variety of subjects, focusing primarily on Japanese law. He has been closely involved in the problems of international child abduction and post-divorce/separation parental access in Japan.

Jasminka Kalajdzic is Assistant Professor at the University of Windsor. She joined the Faculty of Law in July 2009 after twelve years in private practice as a civil litigator. Her current research focusses on three areas: the critical analysis and empirical investigations of class action litigation, legal ethics, and access to justice. Jasminka has published a book and several articles in peer-reviewed journals, including an article on legal ethics and class action praxis. She is the Canadian representative in an International Research Collaborative on Collective Litigation.

Abdul Samad Kamawi is Rule of Law Officer at the United States Institute of Peace. He is from Kamah District of Nangarhar Province of Afghanistan, received his B.A. Degree in Sharia and Law from Al-Azhar University of Egypt in 2004. He worked as a Secretary for the Afghan Embassy in Cairo, Egypt until June 2004. After his return back to Afghanistan, he has been working in legal fields for several organizations in Kabul, Afghanistan such as Sr. Rule of Law Officer for United States Institute of Peace, Rule of Law Officer for Foundation Open Society Institute-Afghanistan (FOSI-A), Legal Consultant, AGA International Law Firm, Legal Adviser, Rural Land Administration Project- Asian Development Bank-Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation, Legal Adviser, USAID/Land Titling and Economic Restructure of Afghanistan (LTERA) project and Deputy Country Director and Advocate, International Legal Foundation- Afghanistan (ILF-A).

Daniel Katz is Assistant Professor of Law and Co-Director of Reinvent Law: A Law Laboratory Devoted to Innovation, Technology and Entrepreneurship at Michigan State University College of Law. Prior to joining the Faculty Daniel was a Fellow in Empirical Legal Studies at the University of Michigan Law School and an NSF-IGERT Fellow at the University of Michigan Center for the Study of Complex Systems. His wide variety of academic interests include positive legal theory, quantitative modeling of litigation and jurisprudence, and the impact of information technology on the market for legal services. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science and Public Policy from the University of Michigan in 2011. He graduated cum laude from the University of Michigan Law School in 2005, and simultaneously obtained a M.P.P. from the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan.

Amanda Kennedy is the Deputy Director of the Australian Centre for Agriculture and Law for the University of New England, Australia. She has extensive experience in law-based multidisciplinary research, particularly incorporating the social sciences. Amanda's research has been shaped by her interest in contract law and dispute resolution, with emphasis on the influence of legal instruments and institutions upon stakeholder behaviour. Her PhD research examined the law governing industrial agreements against the background of social context, and she has developed aspects of her approach in her more recent work on natural resource governance. Since commencing the role of Deputy Director in 2008, Amanda has focused upon instruments and institutions for effective natural resource governance.

Justice Adèle Kent is a judge on the Court of Queen's Bench of Alberta. She was appointed to the bench in 1994. She has been a member and co-chair of the Ethics Advisory Committee, a committee established to provide confidential advice to federally-appointed judges. Justice Kent is a judicial associate of the National Judicial Institute, part of a team responsible for designing judicial education programs in ethics, science, social context and civil law.

Justine Kingsbury is Lecturer in the Department of Philosophy, Religious Studies and Ethics at the University of Waikato. Her research Interests include Philosophy of Mind, Philosophy of Biology, Aesthetics, Informal Logic, Metaphilosophy. She has taught courses on critical reasoning, understanding science: how and why it works, minds and machines, aesthetics, and philosophy and the arts.

Stephanie Kimbro is the Director of the North Carolina branch of Burton Law, LLC. Prior to working with Burton Law, Stephanie operated a web-based virtual law office for six years delivering unbundled estate planning to clients online. She is the recipient of the 2009 ABA Keane Award for Excellence in eLawyering and was named an ABA Journal Legal Rebel in 2010. Stephanie has published two books, Virtual Law Practice: How to Deliver Legal Services Online, ABA, October, 2010 and Limited Scope Legal Services: Unbundling and the Self-Help Client, ABA, March 2012. She is also the co-founder of Virtual Law Office Technology, LLC (VLOTech), which was acquired by Total Attorneys in the fall of 2009. Stephanie serves on a wide variety of professional boards and committees.

Kimberly Kirkland is Professor of Law at the University of New Hampshire School of Law. Before coming to the University of New Hampshire School of Law, Kimberly spent ten years litigating civil disputes including: employment, commercial and professional liability cases. She also counseled corporate clients on employment issues. She practiced at Goulston & Storrs in Boston and Upton, Sanders & Smith in New Hampshire. The primary focus of Kimberly's research is the legal profession and lawyers' ethics in practice.

Shelley Kierstead is Assistant Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University. Her research interests lie in the areas of family law, access to justice, and dispute resolution. She has also conducted research in the conflict of laws area, completing a Master of Laws degree focusing on this topic at the University of Toronto 1993. She has a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from Osgoode Hall Law School. Since 1997, Shelley has coordinated a parent education program for separating parents.

Bruce Kobayashi is Professor of Law, George Mason University School of Law, Arlington, VA. Since joining George Mason in 1992, he has been a frequent contributor to economics and law and economics journals. He previously served as a senior economist with the Federal Trade Commission, a senior research associate with the U.S. Sentencing Commission, and an economist with the U.S. Department of Justice. Bruce was educated at the University of California, Los Angeles, earning his B.S. in Economics and System Science (1981), and his M.A. (1982) and Ph.D. (1986) in Economics.

Martin Kopa is an assistant at the Centre for Clinical Legal Education and a doctoral researcher at the Department of Constitutional Law and Public International Law of the Palacky University in Olomouc, Faculty of Law. His professional activities concern International Law of Human Rights, Constitutional Law, Judiciary Administration Law, Professional Ethics and Moot Court programme. Currently, he is undergoing a traineeship at the European Court of Human Rights.

Jennifer Koshan is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Calgary. Before joining the Faculty she practiced for several years in the Northwest Territories as Crown counsel, and worked as the Legal Director of the B.C. branch of the Women's Legal Education and Action Fund (LEAF), a non-profit equality rights organization. Jennifer served as Graduate Program Director from 2006-2011, and as Associate Dean (Research) from 2007-2011. Jennifer's research interests are in the areas of constitutional law, equality and human rights, state responses to violence, legal theory, and public interest advocacy. She spent the fall 2011 term at New York University as a Global Research Fellow, conducting a comparative study of specialized domestic violence courts in Calgary and New York.

Katherine Kruse is Professor of Law and Director of Clinics at Hamline University School of Law. She was previously at William S. Boyd School of Law, UNLV and at the University of Wisconsin. She earned her J.D. from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 1989, graduating first in her class, and having served as an Articles Editor on the Wisconsin Law Review. She had previously earned an M.A. in Philosophy from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and a B.A. from Oberlin College. After graduation, Katherine clerked for United States District Court Judge Barbara B. Crabb, then Chief Judge for the Western District of Wisconsin. Her research interests center around issues of lawyering and professionalism as well as systemic reform in the criminal justice system.

Helena Lamed is the Director of the Legal Methodology Program at the Faculty of Law, McGill University. She has been member of the Bar of Quebec since 1983 and prior to joining the Faculty practiced commercial and family law litigation for close to fifteen years. She teaches a variety of course including Legal Ethics and Professionalism. She is also the faculty supervisor of the Legal Clinic Course, overseeing the placements of approximately 50 law students in community clinics and other non-profit organizations each year. Also interested in the area of research ethics and hospital governance, Helena was a long standing member of both the REB of the Montreal Children's Hospital and the Quality Assurance Committee of the Radio-Oncology service of the Montreal General Hospital.

John M. Law is Professor of Law at the Faculty of Law, University of Alberta. He is a member of the organizing committee for ILECV. John specializes in administrative law, legal history, legal education, the regulation of the legal profession, and professional responsibility. His contributions have been recognized by the Law Society of Alberta and the Canadian Bar Association Alberta through the presentation of a Distinguished Service Award in 2006. John has served on many committees with the Law Society of Alberta, including the education and credentials committees, and from 1989-1995, he was a member of the subcommittee that drafted a new Code of Conduct for the Alberta legal profession. He has also been actively involved with the Canadian Law School Admissions Group and the Law School Admission Council, representing Canadian interests and serving on the Council's Board of Trustees on three occasions

Lisa G. Lerman is Professor of Law at The Catholic University of America, Columbus School of Law, where she has taught since 1987. She serves as coordinator of clinical programs for the law school. Lisa is co-author of Ethical Problems in the Practice of Law (Aspen 2005) and of Learning from Practice (West 1998). She has written many articles about lawyers, law firms, the legal profession and legal education. Much of her recent writing explores issues relating to lawyer dishonesty and billing fraud. Lisa is chair of the planning committee for the ABA National Conference on Professional Responsibility. She is a member of the National Advisory Committee for Equal Justice Works. She has served as chair of the Professional Responsibility Section of the Association of American Law Schools and as a member of the D.C. Bar Legal Ethics Committee.

Leslie Levin is a graduate of Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism and received her law degree from Columbia Law School. Following graduation, she served as a law clerk for Judge Robert W. Sweet in the Southern District of New York. Leslie worked at Patterson, Belknap, Webb & Tyler, a New York law firm, for 14 years, where she represented media clients and engaged in commercial litigation. She served on the law firm's Ethics Committee and as Secretary to the Committee on Professional and Judicial Ethics of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. Leslie has taught at Columbia Law School (as an adjunct faculty member), at New York University School of Law (as an instructor in the Lawyering Program), and at the University of Haifa (as a Fulbright Specialist). Her research and writings focus on the legal profession and on professional responsibility issues.

Suzanne Le Mire is Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Law at the University of Adelaide. Prior to joining the Faculty she taught in the School of Commerce at the University of Adelaide and the Faculty of Law at Monash University. Suzanne's research interests include corporate governance, professional ethics and regulation, and regulatory theory. She has recently completed a PhD examining the role and regulation of non-executive directors of large publicly-traded corporations.

Geoffrey Loomer is an Assistant Professor at the Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University. Geoff obtained his B.Sc. in Economics from the University of Victoria and his LL.B. from the University of British Columbia, spending two years in the interim with the Bank of Canada. He clerked with the British Columbia Supreme Court in 2000/01 and then practised in the tax group of McCarthy Tétrault until 2006. Geoff received a BCL from the University of Oxford in 2005 and later returned to Oxford to pursue a D.Phil. in international tax law. He is affiliated with the Oxford University Centre for Business Taxation. His research and teaching interests involve the intersection of tax law, corporate law and public law.

Alex Long is Professor of Law at the University of Tennessee College of Law. Prior to joining the University of Tennessee, Alex taught at Oklahoma City University School of Law and West Virginia University. Before entering academia, he was an associate in the labor section of the Clarksburg, West Virginia office of Steptoe & Johnson. Alex has written numerous law review articles and is a co-author of the casebook Professional Responsibility in the Life of a Lawyer. Much of his scholarship explores the intersection of professional responsibility with tort and employment law.

Joan Loughrey is a Professor of Law and the Director of the Centre for Business Law and Practice in the School of Law, University of Leeds. She is an ex-solicitor having practised in England and Wales and Hong Kong. Her main areas of interest are the regulation of corporate lawyers, corporate governance and company law. She is the Programme Administrator of the Masters programs offered by the Centre including Law and Finance, International Business Law, International Corporate Law, International Banking and Finance Law, International Trade Law, and European and International Business Law.

Anna Lund is completing her PhD at the University of British Columbia in consumer bankruptcy law. Previously, she studied at the University of Alberta and the University of California, Berkeley, and practiced law in Alberta with Field Law and the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench.

Peter MacFarlane is Associate Professor at the University of South Australia School of Law. Prior to this he was Professor and Head of the School of Law at the University of the South Pacific and Director of the University Community Legal Centre. He has also held appointments as Associate Professor in the School of Law at QUT and as full time Law Reform Commissioner with the Queensland law Reform Commission. Peter has worked as a legal practitioner in Vanuatu and in New South Wales and has served on a number of government and non-government Boards and Commissions including as legal counsel for a Vanuatu Government Commission of Inquiry. He is Associate Head (Teaching and Learning) in the School of Law and Chair of the School of Law (UniSA) Teaching and Learning Committee.

Milan Markovic will be an Associate Professor at Texas Wesleyan School of Law beginning August 1, 2012. He is a graduate of Columbia University, New York University, and Georgetown University Law Center and recently completed a two-year fellowship at the Temple University Beasley School of Law. Milan's scholarship has appeared in such publications as the Georgetown Journal of Legal Ethics, Texas International Law Journal, and the Utah Law Review.

Steve Mark is the New South Wales Legal Services Commissioner. He is Chairman of the Australian Section of the International Commission of Jurists ("ASICJ") and was President of the New South Wales Anti-Discrimination Board from 1988 to 1994. Steve is also a director of Midnight Basketball, which produces basketball competitions for "at risk" street kids. Steve was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Laws at Macquarie University in October 2000. He is a member to the Council of International House, The University of Sydney is the Registrar for Australasian Register of Security Professionals which has been and is a Member of the International Standards for Security Agencies Technical Committee.

Jim Mason is Senior Lecturer at the University of the West of England Faculty of Environment and Technology. He currently teaches construction law, contract law, dispute resolution and conflict avoidance strategies. His research interests include collaborative approaches to procurement, management and the selection of appropriate construction contracts, provision of services to part-time students, and legal aspects of relational contracting. He is also an ADR Group Accredited Mediator.

Lynn Mather is Professor of Law and Political Science at SUNY Buffalo Law School. She was director of the Baldy Center for Law & Social Policy from 2002-2008. Mather previously held the Nelson A. Rockefeller Chair in Government at Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire. In 1995 Lynn, was awarded the Dartmouth College Distinguished Teaching Award. A leading scholar in the field of law and society, she has published extensively on lawyers, legal professionalism, women in the legal profession, courts in popular culture, litigation against tobacco, trial courts and public policy, divorce mediation, plea bargaining, and the transformation of disputes.

Judith Maute is William J. Alley Professor of Law at the University of Oklahoma. She is the founder and, between 2004 and 2010, the director of the University of Oklahoma's law student pro bono program, Students for Access to Justice (SATJ). Judith writes and lectures extensively, with special focus on legal ethics, legal history, contracts, and dispute resolution. She has authored over twenty publications, with recent works in the law reviews at Fordham, Tulane, Northwestern, Georgetown and Utah. Her recent ethics scholarship concentrates on the evolution of lawyers' pro bono responsibilities, system design for the delivery of legal services to under-served communities, and selection of state court judges.

Michael McGarvie is the Legal Services Commissioner and Chief Executive Officer of the Legal Services Board for Victoria, Australia. He was previously the Chief Executive Officer of the Supreme Court of Victoria, and a lawyer practicing in the areas of personal injury law, product liability, public risk and common law. He has a BA and LLB from the University of Melbourne.

Ross McLeod is the Practice Advisor for the Law Society of Alberta. After graduating from Osgoode Hall Law School Ross was admitted to the bar in Alberta in 1975, and practised mainly insurance defence and civil and construction litigation before joining the Law Society in 2005. He was appointed as Queen's Counsel in 2006. Ross is a frequent contributor to the "Ethically Speaking" column in the Law Society Advisory publication. Appointed to the Federation of Law Societies of Canada Standing Committee on the Model Code, he had responsibility for the review and implementation of it in Alberta. Ross has been a sessional lecturer in Professional Responsibility Law School at the University of Alberta Law School since 2006.

Judith A. McMorrow is Professor of Law at Boston College Law. She has written many articles on topics of professional responsibility and age discrimination (with a focus on retirement policy.) Judith is active in pro bono activities, including representing women in Massachusetts seeking commutation based on Battered Woman Syndrome. She has also been active in promoting the interdisciplinary practice of law. After graduating from University of Notre Dame Law School in 1980, Judith clerked for the Hon. Gilbert S. Merritt (United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit) and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger (United States Supreme Court.) She practiced with the Washington D.C. law firm of Steptoe and Johnson before entering teaching in 1985.

Elvira Mendez Pinedo is Professor of European Law (EC and EEA law) at the Law Faculty of the University of Iceland. Graduated in Law at the University Complutense of Madrid, she holds a Masters Degree or Diplome d'Études Approfondies in Community law from Paris II- Assas University and a Doctoral Degree in European Law from the University of Alcalá de Henares (Madrid). Elvira has written different articles on Community/EEA law, is the author of two books on European Consumer Law and more recently published The Effectiveness of European Law and The Authority of European Law respectively. Her research in the field of European consumer procedural law was awarded with three prizes in Spain and brought her to work as a legal expert for the European Commission in the field of consumer protection and public health. She has extensive experience as a lawyer working for different institutions and firms in Europe and in the USA.

Malcolm Mercer is a partner in McCarthy Tétrault's Litigation Group with nearly thirty years' experience. Mr. Mercer also acts as law firm General Counsel and is the former co-leader of the firm's National Litigation Practice. Mr. Mercer is a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada and Chair of the Ethics and Professional Responsibility Committee of the Canadian Bar Association Malcolm maintains a commercial civil litigation practice with an emphasis on professional liability.

Selene Mize is a member of the Faculty of Law at the University of Otago. She obtained her Bachelor of Sciences degree from Northwestern University, and her JD from Stanford University. Her research interests include civil liberties, law and psychology, media law, negotiation, and legal ethics. Selene is a frequent contributor to the New Zealand Law Journal.

Yasutomo Morigiwa is Professor of Law at Nagoya University, Japan.

Tammy Moore is a member of the Faculty of Law at the University of New Brunswick. Tammy teaches Professional Conduct, Trial Practice, Children's Law and Fundamentals of Advocacy. She joined the faculty after practicing family law in Saint John for ten years. Tammy holds a master's and a doctoral degree in history. Her doctoral dissertation is titled, "Unhappy Differences: English Deeds of Separation and Marital Breakdown, c.1650-1900".

Richard Moorhead is Professor of Law at Cardiff Law School. His main research interests are legal aid, no win no fee arrangements, the courts, the legal profession, regulation of professions and legal systems and socio-legal research methods. Richard has conducted a number of evaluations of legal service programmes as well as theoretically informed empirical research into the courts and the legal profession.

Melissa Mortazavi will be a Visiting Assistant Professor of Law at Brooklyn Law School in the fall of 2012. Her primary research interests include professional responsibility and ethics, torts, and food law. In the past year, she has published articles on these subjects in the Washington and Lee Law Review and the Minnesota Law Review (forthcoming). Before joining the faculty at Brooklyn Law School, Melissa clerked for Judge Beverly B. Martin of the U.S. District Court, Northern District of Georgia and practiced at the law firm of Debevoise & Plimpton LLP as a litigator. There, she worked on a wide variety of commercial cases including domestic and international arbitrations, securities investigations, and white collar matters. Her pro bono practice included a class action on behalf of women prisoners, voting rights cases in Florida and Colorado, and representing several Guantanamo detainees before administrative bodies and federal courts, including briefing before the Supreme Court.

Reid Mortensen is Professor of Law at the University of Southern Queensland. He researches and publishes in the fields of lawyers' ethics and international and comparative law. In lawyers' ethics, his work centres on philosophies of virtue, and his writings have addressed their relationship with moral and legal theories of care, religious perspectives on legal practice, lawyers' character, the reform of the legal profession in Queensland and the management of client money.

Elie Mystal is Editor of the blog Above the Law. Prior to winning the ATL Idol Contest, Elie wrote about politics and popular culture at City Hall News and the New York Press. Elie received a degree in Government from Harvard University and a J.D. from Harvard Law School. He still has a rash from all the poison ivy. He used to be a litigator at Debevoise & Plimpton but quit the legal profession in lieu of stripping naked and lighting himself on fire.

Carol Needham is Professor of Law at Saint Louis University Law. A prolific writer and speaker, Carol has been in the mix on several issues primarily under the umbrella of legal ethics and professional responsibility. Presently, her scholarship centers on the ethics issues faced by in-house counsel and lawyers in transactional practice, cross-border practice and professional licensing issues, including the multijurisdictional practice of law. She also is co-author of the upcoming fourth edition of the ethics textbook, Lawyers and the Legal Profession.

Renee Newman Knake is Associate Professor at Michigan State University College of Law and is Co-Director of the Kelle Institute of Ethics and the Legal Profession. Renee received her J.D. from The University of Chicago Law School. Her scholarly interests include intersections between the First Amendment and the law of lawyering, innovation in the delivery of legal services, deregulation of the profession in the United Kingdom, and the portrayal of lawyers in literature and media. Most recently she has turned her energies to consider ways that law, technology, and social media can democratize the delivery of legal services and enhance the practice of law.

Bayasgalan Nyamdavaa is a Fulbright fellow, Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University, U.S. He graduated from Mongolian Police Academy (with Honor) in 2001, and received his master's degree in legal studies from Nagoya University in 2009. Bayasgalan started his service for Mongolian Police Organization as a criminal investigator at a local police department and worked at the senior level positions in the Criminal Police Department and the Headquarters of National Police Agency of Mongolia until 2006. Most recently Bayasgalan served as a Senior Officer - In charge of Foreign Relations & International Legal Matters in the Independent Authority against Corruption in Mongolia.

Munkhsaikhan Odonkhuu is a foreign research associate at Nagoya University and a visiting scholar at University of Washington School of Law. He graduated School of Law, National University of Mongolia in 2005. After his graduation, he worked as a research assistant at the same School of Law between October 2005 and September 2006. He won a scholarship from the Japanese Government in 2006, and he received LL.M. in 2008 and LL.D. in 2011 from Nagoya University, Japan. His main research interest covers comparative constitutionalism, constitutional review and constitutional interpretation theories.

Michael Chukwujindu Ogwezzy is with the Faculty of Law at Lead City University, Nigeria. He holds a Bachelor of Laws Degree (LL.B) with Honours from the University of Ibadan. He attended the Nigeria Law School and was called to the Nigeria Bar in October, 2004. He is qualified to practice as a Barrister and Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Nigerian. Michael also holds a Masters Degree in Law (LL.M) of the University of Nigeria in 2008 with a Ph.D qualifying grade (magna cum laude), Professional Masters in Law and Diplomacy (ML.D) of Delta State University-Nigeria in 2009, Professional Masters of Advanced Studies in International Organisation (MASIO/LL.M) of the University of Zurich, Switzerland, 2011. He has co-authored a book on "Principles of Administrative law in Nigeria", and has published several scholarly articles in different peer reviewed journals.

Amari Omaka Chukwu is Associate Law Professor and Director of Ebonyi State University Law Clinic. He is widely published, predominantly in environmental law. He has varied experiences in the academia, the bench & the bar. A member of GAJE/CLEO/ILEC, he has delivered papers in many international conferences in Africa, Europe, Asia & America. Amari's fond legacy is EBSU Law Clinic (into criminal justice/prison/street law advocacy).

Richard Paschal is Adjunct Professor at George Mason University Law School and an attorney in private practice. He holds B.A., M.A. and J.D. degrees from the University of Virginia, and a D.Phil in Political Science from Johns Hopkins University. From 1998-1999 he was a Judicial Clerk to the Honorable James L. Dennis of the U.S.A Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in New Orleans.

Paul Paton is Vice Provost of the University of the Pacific and Professor of Law at Pacific McGeorge. Educated at the University of Toronto and the University of Cambridge, he holds master's and doctoral degrees from Stanford Law School. Paul's research focuses on ethics in corporate contexts, legal ethics and lawyer regulation in comparative perspective, and on corporate governance matters. He has been recognized nationally in both the United States and Canada for his contributions to debates on the future of the legal profession and is a frequent media commentator on these issues.

Alan Paterson is Professor of Law at the University of Strathclyde. He is also Chair of the International Legal Aid Group, Chair of the Legal Services Group of Citizens Advice Scotland and Vice-Chair of the Joint Standing Committee on Legal Education. Alan is a co-opted member of the Council of the Law Society of Scotland and a member of the Judicial Appointments Board for Scotland and is Research Adviser to the Scottish Legal Aid Board. He previously taught at Edinburgh University from 1975. He is Director of the Centre for Professional Legal Studies and was formerly Head of Department and Director of the Centre for Law, Computers and Technology. He teaches in the areas of legal services and access to justice, professional ethics, legal profession and the judiciary. His research has focused on the legal profession, access to justice, poverty legal services and the judiciary.

Russell Pearce is Professor of Law and Edward & Marilyn Bellet Chair in Legal Ethics, Morality, and Religion at Fordham University School of Law, where he teaches, writes and lectures in the field of professional responsibility. Russ has delivered the Baker & McKenzie Lecture on Legal Ethics at Loyola Chicago Law School, the inaugural Louis D. Brandeis Lecture at Pepperdine Law School and the inaugural William D. Brahm's Lecture on Law and Religion at Case Western Reserve Law School. He has also received the Sanford D. Levy Memorial Award from the New York State Bar Association "in recognition of his contribution to understanding and advancement in the field of professional ethics."

Stephen L. Pepper is Professor of Law at the University of Denver College of Law. Stephen has published well-known law review articles on lawyers' ethics and on the subject of freedom of religion under the First Amendment. His essay on the underlying theory of the ethical relation between lawyer and client won the Association of American Law Schools' 1985 Scholarly Papers competition, and his article on lawyers' ethics and the counseling of clients was the lead article in the May 1995 issue of the Yale Law Journal. A subsequent article, titled "Lawyers' Ethics in the Gap Between Law and Justice," deals with counseling clients when lawful conduct may also be ethically problematic. His most recent work is a book chapter providing practical guidance to working executives and professionals on ethics and the exercise of moral vision.

Andrew Perlman is Professor of Law at Suffolk University Law School. His scholarship focuses on legal ethics and civil procedure. His writings have included articles on the inadvertent disclosure of privileged information, the constitutionality of bar admission rules, and the implications of social psychology for professional responsibility. In 2008, Professor Perlman became a co-author of the widely used and annually updated book, Regulation of Lawyers: Statutes and Standards (with Stephen Gillers and Roy D. Simon), and he is a co-contributor to a legal ethics blog, www.legalethicsforum.com. He is also the Chief Reporter for the American Bar Association's Commission on Ethics 20/20, which is proposing changes to the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct and related policies to address changes in technology and the increasing globalization of the U.S. legal profession.

Darrel Pink is Executive Director of the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society (NSBS), the self-governing body of the legal profession in the province of Nova Scotia. Prior to his appointment as Executive Director, Darrel practiced civil and criminal litigation and administrative law at Patterson Kitz in Halifax, Nova Scotia, first as an Associate Lawyer and then Partner. He was a member of the NSBS Bar Council before his appointment as Executive Director. Darrel is a long-time lecturer at Dalhousie Law School for the professional responsibility course. He is Past President of the Continuing Legal Education Society of Nova Scotia and has been a frequent presenter on issues of regulation of the profession to other law societies in Canada and abroad.

Stephen Pitel is a professor at the University of Western Ontario Faculty of Law. He joined the Faculty in 2000 after practicing corporate and commercial litigation in Toronto and completing graduate studies at the University of Cambridge. His teaching and research is focused on international commercial litigation, torts, civil procedure, unjust enrichment and legal ethics. Stephen was awarded the Bank of Nova Scotia, University of Western Ontario Alumni Association and University Students' Council Award of Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching in 2008 and was Western Law's Student Legal Society Professor of the Year in 2004 and 2008. He is a member of the Chief Justice of Ontario's Advisory Committee on Professionalism.

Justice Terrence Platana is a Justice of the Ontario Court of Justice (General Division). Prior to joining the Court in 1991 he practiced law with McAuley and Partners in Dryden, Ontario. He has sat on the Executive of the Ontario superior Court Judges' Association and was the Regional Senior Justice for the Northwest Region of Ontario from 1997-2005. He is a Deputy Judge of the Court of Nunavut and has lectured at Lakehead University.

Len Polsky is Counsel at MacPherson Leslie and Tyerman LLP, working out of the Calgary office. He was called to the Alberta Bar in 1983 and holds an LL.B, B.C.L. and B.Comm from McGill University. His civil litigation practice involves a broad spectrum of commercial disputes, construction law, wrongful dismissal actions, human resource policies, the purchase and sale of businesses, corporate downsizing and the drafting of employment contracts, non-competition agreements and confidentiality agreements. His clients include individuals, small businesses and multi-national corporations.

Micah Rankin is a Professor of Law at Thompson Rivers University's Faculty of Law. Prior to joining the Faculty Micah articulated and practiced as a litigation associate at Hunter Litigation Chambers in Vancouver. He also served as a judicial law clerk to the British Columbia Court of Appeal (2006 – 2007). Micah's current research focuses on constitutional law, with a special emphasis on judicial independence, legal theory, access to justice and the intersection between constitutional and property rights.

Victoria Rees is the Director of Professional Responsibility for the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society. Victoria has served as Co-Chair of the International Bar Association's Professional Ethics Committee for two years. Victoria is a current member of the Federation of Law Societies' National Model Code of Conduct Committee, as well as a Benchmarking Committee developing national standards for discipline processes in Canada. Victoria assists with teaching the Dalhousie Law School Professional Responsibility course, and co-authored a paper in 2005 with Prof. Richard Devlin on conflicts of interest post R. v. Neil, which was published in the Canadian Bar Review.

Sean Rehaag is an Assistant Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School. Prior to joining the Osgoode faculty Sean was a visiting scholar at the University of Montreal's Chaire de recherche du Canada en droit international des migrations. He has also been a visiting scholar with the Center for Gender and Refugee Studies at UC Hastings, a visiting researcher at the International Gay and Lesbian Human Rights Commission, and an instructor at the University of Victoria and the University of Sherbrooke. Sean's research and teaching focus on migration law and human rights, as well as on the role that legal norms and institutions play in controversies that implicate multiple communities.

Dana A. Remus is Professor of Law at the University of New Hampshire School of Law. Her current research interests center on ethics and the regulation of the legal profession. Her recent articles addressing the profession have been published or accepted for publication in the Hastings Law Journal, the University of Pennsylvania Law Review, and the Yale Law and Policy Review. Dana's teaching interests include property, trusts and estates, legal ethics, and the regulation of the legal profession.

Deborah L. Rhode is the Ernest W. McFarland Professor of Law at Stanford Law School. She is one of the country's leading scholars in the fields of legal ethics and gender, law, and public policy. She is the director of the Stanford Center on the Legal Profession and Founding resident of the International Association of Legal Ethics. Deborah is the former president of the Association of American Law Schools, the former chair of the American Bar Association's Commission on Women in the Profession, the founder and former director of Stanford's Center on Ethics, and the former director of the Michelle R. Clayman Institute for Gender Research at Stanford. She has received the American Bar Association's Michael Franck award for contributions to the field of professional responsibility; the American Bar Foundation's W. M. Keck Foundation Award for distinguished scholarship on legal ethics, the American Bar Association's Pro Bono Publico Award for her work on expanding public service opportunities in law schools, and the White House's Champion of Change award for a lifetime's work in increasing access to justice.

Simon Rice is Associate Professor, and Director of Law Reform and Social Justice, at the Australian National University College of Law. He chairs the Law Reform Advisory Council of the Australian Capital Territory. Simon has worked, taught and written extensively in anti-discrimination, human rights and access to justice issues. As well as his academic career, Simon has worked in community legal centres, private legal practice, legal policy research and human rights advocacy and training. He has been director of clinical legal education programs at the University of NSW, Director of the NSW Law and Justice Foundation, President of Australian Lawyers for Human Rights, a Board member of the NSW Legal Aid Commission, and a judicial member of the NSW Equal Opportunity Tribunal.

Marie-Claude Rigaud is Assistant Professor at Montreal University's Faculty of Law, where she is currently acting as the director of the Masters Program Business Law in a Global Context. She is also adjunct professor at the University of Sherbrooke's Faculty of Law and lectures at the Rotman School of Management (University of Toronto). Marie-Claude's areas of research are dispute resolution, legal ethics and professionalism. She is the co-editor of the Journal of Arbitration and Mediation. In 2008, after many years in practice in the areas of litigation, domestic and international arbitration in Toronto, Zurich and Montreal, she received her Doctor of laws degree (with highest distinction) from the Université Paris XII for her thesis entitled Transnational Arbitral Procedure. Marie-Claude is also a graduate of McGill University, where she obtained her civil and common law degrees (B.C.L. and LL.B.).

Scott L. Rogers is Lecturer in Law and the Founder and Director of the Mindfulness and Law Program at the University of Miami School of Law. He is the author of "Mindfulness for Law Students: Applying the Power of Mindful Awareness to Achieve Balance and Success in Law School" which is being used in law schools across the country, and "The Six-Minute Solution: A Mindfulness Primer for Lawyers". Scott is a leader in the area of mindfulness and the law. Jurisight®, the program Professor Rogers created to teach mindfulness to legal professionals, has been integrated into law school classes, and presented at CLE programs at state and national bar conferences.

Lisa Rohrer is the Director of Executive Education and Research Fellow at the Center for the Study of the Legal Profession at Georgetown Law. Her areas of expertise include the leadership and strategy of professional service firms, client satisfaction and survey research. In addition to launching Georgetown Law's executive education program, she is currently conducting research on the changing management models and structures in law firms, segmentation of the US legal market, and managing professional talent. Prior to joining Georgetown Law, Lisa was the Director of Research at the Hildebrandt Institute, a division of Thomson Reuters. She was also a Research Fellow at Harvard Law School.

Ellyn S. Rosen is Senior Counsel at the American Bar Association Center for Professional Responsibility. She serves as co-counsel to the ABA Standing Committee on Professional Discipline. Its mission is to assist the judiciary and the bar in the development, coordination, and strengthening of disciplinary enforcement throughout the United States, including the assessment of the regulatory ramifications of global legal practice developments. Ellyn also serves as co-counsel to the ABA Task Force on International Trade in Legal Services. She is a member of the International Bar Association's Professional Ethics Committee and speaks frequently at international, state and local bar programs regarding issues relating to the regulation of the legal profession.

Robert E. Rosen is Professor of Law at the University of Miami Law School. He earned an A.B. from Harvard College in 1974, an M.A. in sociology from the University of California at Berkeley in 1977, a J.D. from Harvard Law School in 1979, and a Ph.D. in sociology from the University of California at Berkeley in 1984. During the 1987-88 academic year, Robert was on leave at Harvard University as a fellow in Harvard's Program in Ethics and the Professions, and in 1994 he was a research scholar at Stanford Law School.

Amy Salyzyn is a J.S.D. candidate at Yale Law School. Prior to commencing her graduate work, Amy received her J.D. from the University of Toronto Law School, served as a judicial law clerk at the Court of Appeal for Ontario and practiced at a Toronto litigation boutique. As a litigator, Amy's practice included a wide variety of civil and commercial litigation matters. In Fall 2011, she was a Visiting Researcher at Osgoode Hall Law School.

Ted Schneyer is the Milton O. Riepe Professor Emeritus at the James E. Rogers College of Law, University of Arizona, where he has taught since 1986. Prior to joining the University of Arizona he was Professor of Law at University of Wisconsin Law School. Ted has published extensively in the areas of legal ethics and professional regulation, including many frequently cited articles in law journals. He has law degrees from Harvard Law School (LL.B., cum laude) and from Stanford Law School (J.S.M., 1971).

Noel Semple is a SSHRC Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law, where he is affiliated with the Centre for the Legal Profession. Noel completed his Ph.D at Osgoode Hall Law School (York University) in 2011, and his LL.M degree in 2009. Noel was called to the Ontario bar in 2008 after completing articles at Borden Ladner Gervais LLP, in Toronto. In 2007, he received his Juris Doctor degree from the University of Toronto Faculty of Law. Noel's areas of interest include family law, civil procedure and dispute resolution, in addition to legal ethics and the legal profession. His work has appeared in the Osgoode Hall Law Journal, the Canadian Journal of Women and the Law, and the Family Court Review, among other journals.

Rita Shackel is Associate Dean (Research and Learning) and Senior Lecturer at the University of Sydney. She is a graduate of the University of Sydney holding undergraduate and postgraduate qualifications in law, science (pure mathematics), psychology and education. She has participated on a number of government, institutional and professional committees and has delivered professional training and CLE programs to legal practitioners in NSW. Rita is a member of the Institute of Criminology and her PhD thesis examined the use of expert evidence in child sexual assault cases. Prior to joining the Faculty Rita spent some time teaching and undertaking research in the United States including at Duke University Law School, the Brandeis School of Law, University of Louisville and Georgetown University.

Justice Karen Sharlow is appointed to the Federal Court of Appeal. She received her education at University of British Columbia and Simon Fraser University, and was called to the Bar in British Columbia in 1982. She practised law in Vancouver, British Columbia with McCarthy Tétrault, 1982-1990 and Thorsteinssons 1990-1999.

Carole Silver is Professor of Law at Maurer School of Law, Indiana University. Prior to joining the Faculty in 2010 she was visiting professor of law and executive director of the Center for the Study of the Legal Profession at Georgetown Law Center. Previously, she was on the faculty of Northwestern University Law School. Carole's scholarship uses empirical methods to examine globalization as it relates to legal practice, legal education and professional regulation. Her current work includes the first empirical investigation of the role of the US legal education in the careers of international lawyers, and a study examining the intersection of gender and globalization in the context of large law firm practice. Recent work has considered globalization strategies of US-based law firms and the ethics of outsourcing legal services offshore.

Charles Silver holds the Roy W. and Eugenia C. McDonald Endowed Chair at the University of Texas School of Law, where he writes and teaches about civil procedure, professional responsibility and, increasingly, health care law and policy. Charles has coauthored a series of studies of medical malpractice litigation in Texas, most of which have been published in peer-reviewed journals. In 2009, the Tort Trial and Insurance Practice Section of the American Bar Association honored Charles with the Robert McKay Award for outstanding scholarship in tort and insurance law. He is currently an Associate Reporter on the American Law Institute's Project on Aggregate Litigation and a member of the ABA/TIPS Task Force on the Contingent Fee. He has been Visiting Professor at the University of Michigan Law School and the Vanderbilt University Law School.

Justice Judith Snider is appointed to the Federal Court of Canada Trial Division, and is a Member ex officio of the Appeal Division. She received her education at Carleton University, and University of Calgary. She was called to the Bar of Alberta, 1982. She was a Partner at Code Hunter, 1987 to 1992, General Counsel for the National Energy Board from 1992 to 1995, member from 1995 to 2002, and Vice-Chairman from 1999 to 2002.

Hilary Sommerlad is Senior Lecturer in Law at Leeds Metropolitan University. She has a degree in History from Cambridge University and a D. Phil in International Politics from York University. She is also a qualified teacher. She worked as a researcher on various projects and gained a wide experience of lecturing. In 1984 she left York University, where she had taught politics and women's studies, to re-train as a solicitor. After qualifying as a solicitor Hilary worked in general practice, specializing in criminal and family law. She returned to academic work in 1990, in order to direct a research project, commissioned by the Law Society, on women solicitors. She is a regular contributor to conferences on the law and the legal profession, legal aid, and women and the law.

Lorne Sossin is Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School. He is a member of the organizing committee for ILECV. Prior to this appointment as Dean, he was a Professor with the Faculty of Law at the University of Toronto where he also served as Associate Dean (2004-2007) and as the inaugural Director of the Centre for the Legal Profession (2008-2010). His teaching and scholarly interests span administrative and constitutional law, the regulation of professions, civil litigation, public policy and the judicial process. Lorne was a law clerk to former Chief Justice Antonio Lamer of the Supreme Court of Canada, a former Associate in Law at Columbia Law School and a former litigation lawyer with the firm of Borden & Elliot (now Borden Ladner Gervais LLP).

John Steele practices law in Palo Alto California with an emphasis on legal ethics, the law of lawyering, and risk management. He has taught as adjunct lecturer in legal ethics at UC-Berkeley School of Law (Boalt Hall), Stanford Law School, and Santa Clara University School of Law. He was also a Visiting Professor, Indiana University (Maurer School of Law), Spring 2010. John is a former member, COPRAC (2005-08) (State Bar of California's standing Committee on Professional Responsibility and Conduct).

Gary Tamsitt has been Director of the Australian National University Legal Workshop since 1995. He graduated from Sydney University in 1977. He has worked as a solicitor in NSW and ACT in litigation, property, succession and commercial work. His involvement in practical legal education spans 20 years and has ranged from Mallesons in Canberra, to the Legal Workshop, to Freehills in Sydney (as Director of Professional Development), to the University of NSW and back to the Workshop. He has written or contributed to several books and a number of journal articles, particularly on legal practice skills. He is co-author, with Charles Rowland, of the fourth and fifth editions of Hutley's Australian Wills Precedents.

Seow Hon Tan is Associate Professor at Singapore Management University School of Law. Prior to joining SMU, Seow Hon was an associate professor at the Faculty of Law, National University of Singapore (NUS), where she won the NUS Annual Teaching Excellence Award for the academic years 2005-2006, 2007-2008 and 2008-2009, and the NUS Faculty of Law Annual Teaching Excellence Award in 2008-2009. Seow Hon's research interest is primarily in jurisprudence. She is also passionate about how legal education influences moral and professional identities and how it may be geared to inculcate salutary legal ideals.

David M. Tanovich is Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Windsor where he teaches and writes in the areas of criminal law, evidence, legal ethics, and racial profiling. He is also the Academic Director of Windsor's Law Enforcement Accountability Project (LEAP) and the recipient of a $50,000 grant from the Law Foundation of Ontario for the LEAP project. David's research has been frequently cited by the Supreme Court of Canada and other appellate courts, law reform and human rights commissions. It has also been recognized in various awards such as the 2005 University of Windsor Award for Excellence in Scholarship, Research and Creative Activity and 2006 Canadian Association of Law Teachers' Scholarly Paper Award.

Margaret Tarkington is Associate Professor of Law at Robert H. McKinney School of Law, Indiana University. Prior to joining the IU faculty, she taught for four years at the J. Reuben Clark Law School, Brigham Young University, in Provo, Utah, where she received the SBA Award for Professor of the Year for First Year Courses. Margaret's scholarly interests lie in professional responsibility, civil procedure, and federal courts. Her work in professional responsibility addresses the intersection of restrictions on attorney speech, the First Amendment, and the overall administration of justice. In an article forthcoming in the U.C. Davis Law Review, Margaret proposes a new methodology for analyzing the free speech rights of lawyers that works to preserve the essential role of attorneys in the U.S. justice system.

Laurel Terry is Harvey A. Feldman Distinguished Faculty Scholar and Professor of Law at the Dickinson School of Law, Penn State University. Laurel is a leading scholar of legal ethics and the international and inter-jurisdictional regulation of the legal profession. A three-time Fulbright grant recipient, her research interests include global regulatory initiatives, including recent structural reforms in Australia and the UK, the application of the World Trade Organization's GATS agreement to legal services, lawyer confidentiality and the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) recommendations, and the effect of the Bologna Process on legal education.

Jeffrey Thom, Q.C. is Associate Counsel with the Calgary office of the multi-national Miller Thomson LLP law firm. He has practiced law as a litigator for 34 years in Alberta and British Columbia, in diverse practise areas including corporate and commercial litigation and corporate governance, securities and other regulatory litigation, insolvency and restructuring, insurance, and director, shareholder, and estate litigation. He has appeared as lead Counsel in trial and appeal courts in Alberta, British Columbia, and Manitoba, and in the Federal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada. He has extensive experience and training in both mediation and arbitration, was a sessional instructor at the University of Calgary law school, and is a long term member of the Canadian Bar Association Legislative Review Committee, reviewing legislation proposed by the Alberta government before its enactment. He was awarded his Queen's Counsel designation in 2002 by the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta.

Tamra Thomson is the Director of Legislation and Law Reform at the Canadian Bar Association.

Margaret Thornton is Professor of Law at the Australian National University. She has degrees from Sydney, UNSW and Yale, and is a Barrister of the Supreme Court of NSW and the High Court of Australia. She has published extensively on issues relating to women and the law, including Dissonance and Distrust: Women and the Legal Profession, Oxford University Press, 1996. Her most recent book is Privatising the Public University: The Case of Law, Routledge, London, 2012. Her current research project, 'Balancing Law and Life' entails a study of gender and corporate law firms and is funded by an Australian Research Council Discovery Grant, 2012-14.

Mary Pat Treuthart is Professor of Law at Gonzaga School of Law. She began her law teaching career after serving a judicial clerkship and working at Warren County Legal Services in New Jersey as a staff attorney and the program director where her primary caseload consisted of civil cases. Mary Pat was a Fulbright Scholar and Lecturer at Marie Curie Skłodowska University in Lublin, Poland (spring 2002) and served as a Legal Specialist for the ABA-CEELI program in Pristina, Kosovo (fall 2006). She is a faculty advisor to the Gonzaga Journal of International Law and serves as a coach to the Jessup Moot Court team. She has a long-standing commitment to social justice and human rights issues, particularly those that affect women and people with disabilities.

Gordon Turriff is senior counsel to Stikeman Elliott LLP in its Vancouver office. He was called to the bar in British Columbia in 1975. His field of practice is financial relationships between lawyers and their clients and costs of litigation (attorney fee shifting). For eight years, he was a bencher (director) of the Law Society of British Columbia and in 2009 he was its president. The Society is the public interest regulator of British Columbia's 10,500 lawyers. It is not a lawyer interest group. Gordon has spoken and written extensively about lawyer independence, having addressed audiences on that subject throughout British Columbia, in Perth, Australia, in London UK and at Michigan State University. Gordon was appointed Queen's Counsel in 2002.

Emanuel Tucsa is currently working on his LL.M. at Osgoode Hall under the supervision of York University Dean of Graduate Studies, Allan Hutchinson. He received his B.A., with high distinction, in Philosophy, Political Science and French from the University of Toronto. Upon his graduation, he was the Silver Medalist in Philosophy for St. Michael's College at the University of Toronto. He obtained his J.D. from Osgoode Hall Law School, where he focused on legal philosophy, legal ethics, tort and fiduciary law. Emanuel's current research is on the application of legal philosophy to issues in legal ethics. In particular, he makes use of the procedural naturalism of Lon Fuller to ground the ethical duties of lawyers within legal systems.

Lucinda Vandervort is Professor of Law at the University of Saskatchewan. She holds degrees in law and philosophy from Bryn Mawr, McGill (MA, PhD), Queen's (Kingston), and the Yale Law School, and is a non-practicing member of the Ontario bar. Her scholarly interests encompass administrative and criminal law, legal theory, public policy, and regulation of the professions. She has published extensively on sexual assault law; her most recent articles on sexual assault appear in the Criminal Law Quarterly (2012), the Columbia Journal of Gender and Law, and the New Criminal Law Review. Her current research on "legitecture"--see (2012) 63 UNBLJ-- deals with the administration of justice, legal theory, and the design of socio-legal institutions. Her conference paper emerges from that intersection to focus on prosecutorial discretion, the rule of law, human rights, and the institutional changes that may be required to improve the handling of sexual assault cases by the Canadian legal system.

Jim Varro is the Director, Policy and Tribunals of the Law Society of Upper Canada and is also a member of the Standing Committee on the Model Code of Conduct for the Federation of Law Societies Canada. He has an LL.B. from the University of Saskatchewan.

Rob Vischer is the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs at University of St. Thomas School of Law. Rob's scholarship explores the intersection of law, religion, and public policy, with a particular focus on the religious and moral dimensions of professional identity. His new book project, Love & Justice: Martin Luther King's Lessons for Lawyers, pushes back against the individualist premises underlying our modern conception of the lawyer's role by exploring Dr. King's vision of "the beloved community." In an earlier book, Conscience and the Common Good: Reclaiming the Space Between Person and State (Cambridge Univ. Press 2010), Rob defined and defended the relational dimension of conscience and identifies ways in which our legal system can better maintain the communal venues in which the dictates of conscience are shaped, articulated, and lived out.

Cheryl Wattle is Associate Professor of Law and Director of Clinical Education at the University of Oklahoma College of Law. Cheryl graduated from Smith College, cum laude, with high honors in Sociology. She received her Juris Doctorate degree from Boston University College of Law. Cheryl began her legal career as an Assistant United States Attorney, District of Connecticut. She later transferred to the United States Attorney's Office for the Northern District of Texas where she focused on the prosecution of white collar crime. Cheryl received numerous awards and commendations for her service as a prosecutor. For the past eighteen years, she has been actively engaged in the practice of law in the areas of criminal defense and employment litigation. Cheryl has also represented clients in post-conviction proceedings leading to the exoneration of clients who were wrongfully convicted.

Jonnette Watson Hamilton is Professor of Law at the University of Calgary Faculty of Law. She was called to the Alberta Bar in 1979 and practiced law in Wetaskiwin, Alberta until 1991. She was also a member of the Alberta Farm Debt Review Board from 1986 to 1991 and mediated disputes between insolvent farmers and their creditors. After attending Columbia Law School in New York City in 1991/92 for her LL.M., Jonnette began teaching in the faculty. Her research interests are in the areas of legal theory, legal reasoning, equality, property law and dispute resolution.

Lisa Webley is a socio-legal researcher at the University of Westminster, lecturing principally in constitutional and administrative law, legal skills and the English legal system and research methods. She undertakes empirical research although and also conducts some doctrinal studies. Her main research areas are access to justice, legal ethics, women and the legal profession, the operation of the legal system, dispute settlement and resolution, family law and constitutional and administrative law. She has just completed the Complete Public Law Text, Cases and Materials for Oxford University Press with her colleague Harriet Samuels, as well as the 2nd edition of her skills book Legal Writing.

Brad Wendel is Professor of Law at Cornell Law School. He previously taught at Washington and Lee Law School from 1999-2004. Before entering graduate school and law teaching, he was a product liability litigator at Bogle & Gates in Seattle and a law clerk for Judge Andrew J. Kleinfeld on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. His teaching interests are in the regulation of the legal profession and torts, and his research focuses on the application of moral and political philosophy to problems of legal ethics.

Helena Whalen-Bridge is an Assistant Professor at the National University of Singapore. She has a JD from the University of Connecticut and an LL.M from the National University of Singapore. Helena has written in the area of legal ethics, law teaching, and narrative and rhetoric.

Sheila Wildeman is Associate Professor at Dalhousie University, Schulich School of Law, where she teaches administrative law and public law. Her research is mainly concentrated in mental health law, with a focus on the assessment of decision-making capacity. Sheila is also involved in research examining adult protection laws and practices in the Maritime provinces, and the state of provincial laws on substitute decision-making about research participation. She has law degrees from Dalhousie and Toronto, and a Masters in Arts from Columbia.

Frederica Wilson is the Senior Director, Regulatory and Public Affairs of the Federation of Law Societies of Canada, the national coordinating body of the country's regulators. From May 2005 until December 2006 Frederica was a Senior Research Officer with the Law Commission of Canada with responsibility for major law reform projects on Indigenous Legal Traditions and Vulnerable Workers. Prior to joining the Law Commission Frederica was a partner in the Ottawa law firm Engelmann Gottheil where she practised labour, employment and human rights law. She is a graduate of the University of Toronto and was called to the Ontario Bar in 1993.

Leah Wortham is Professor of Law at the Columbus School of Law of The Catholic University of America. She served as clinical coordinator from 1981-1990 and associate dean from 1990-95. She is an editor and co-author of "Learning From Practice," published by Thomson Publishing, the first textbook for general externship clinical programs. She serves as the CUA director for an LL.M. program offered in conjunction with Jagiellonian University and for an American law certificate program in which Jagiellonian and international LL.M. students are enrolled. Leah has worked extensively with the bar of the District of Columbia in a number of capacities regarding legal ethics and the regulation of the legal profession.

Bobette Wolski is Associate Professor at Bond University. She practised as a solicitor for 10 years, primarily in the fields of litigation and family law. She is an accredited mediator with the Queensland Law Society, the Legal Aid Office (Queensland), the Australian Institute of Family Law Arbitrators and Mediators, and LEADR (Lawyers Engaged in Alternative Dispute Resolution). Bobette's primary interests are dispute resolution, advocacy and skills training. Her research interests & research expertise includes Dispute Resolution, Advocacy and Skills Training.

Alice Woolley is co-chair of the Organizing Committee for ILECV. She is Professor of Law and Director of Admissions at the Faculty of Law, University of Calgary. Alice's research interests are in the areas of legal ethics and professional regulation, with a particular interest in the intersection of professional regulation, moral philosophy and moral psychology. She is the author of Understanding Lawyers' Ethics in Canada (2011) and the co-editor and co-author of Lawyers' Ethics and Professional Regulation, 2d ed. (2012).

Richard Wu is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Hong Kong. He is one of the few legal scholars who studied common law and Chinese law at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels. Apart from law, he also received academic training in other disciplines like economics, business administration, sociology and social policy. Richard completed his doctoral dissertation at the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London. He is a Visiting Scholar of Peking University Law School, Visiting Professor of Tsinghua University Law School, member of Editorial Advisory Board of international journal of Legal Ethics and the Collaborative Research Network on East Asian Law and Society. Richard is active in interdisciplinary legal research, and his current research focuses on four major areas: Legal Profession, Legal Education and Legal Ethics in Hong Kong and China; telecommunications Law and Policy in Hong Kong; Real Estate Law and Practice in Hong Kong and China; and Chinese Banking Law.

Sally H. Yen is currently a solo practitioner and a young researcher pioneering in the field of legal ethics in Taiwan. After completing her comparative study on attorneys' ethics at Harvard Law School, Ms. Yen has committed herself to the reform and promotion of legal ethics in her home country. She has participated in amending the codified Attorney Ethics Rules passed in 2009, followed by her editing of the Annotated Attorney Ethics Rules published by Taiwan Bar Association in 2011. As a member of the Committee of Attorney Ethics and Discipline in Taiwan Bar Association, Ms. Yen has vastly observed real ethical challenges facing Taiwanese lawyers up to date. Her private practice experience contributes greatly to her empirical approach of addressing ethical problems. Ms. Yen believes that the dialogue of ethical issues among legal professions is a valuable purpose.

Limor Zer-Gutman is an expert in legal ethics and lawyers' professional responsibility. Limor teaches Legal Ethics and Torts Law at Striks School of Law. She received her LL.M. from UCLA and her S.J.D. from Stanford, and she serves on the Revision of the Rules of Professional Conduct Committee where she proposed and drafted some of the new rules including the rules allowing lawyers' advertising for the first time in Israel. Limor is a special advisor to the Israeli Bar on issues of lawyers' conduct and professional discipline and editor of Professional Ethics - the IBA's Ethics Journal. In addition she has developed a unique method to the teaching of ethics to law students.

Ellen B. Zweibel is Professor of Law at the University of Ottawa, Faculty of Law where she teaches Dispute Resolution and Professional Responsibility, Income Tax, Tax and Environment, and Property Law. Together with colleagues at the medical and law faculty and the University of Ottawa's Centre for e-Learning, she created two interactive web based learning sites used in a blended learning context to teach dispute resolution and professional responsibility to law students and conflict resolution to medical professionals. Since 1997, she has provided conflict resolution and negotiation programs for medical students, residents, and physician faculty at the University of Ottawa and elsewhere in North America. In 2007, The Canadian Council on Learning selected the conflict resolution program for medical professionals for the "Sharing the Flame Award: Recognizing Excellence in Learning-Promising Practices for Health and Learning." In 2011 she received the University of Ottawa Excellence in Education Award.